TO EXPRESS CO.Bideford Sheriffs Reluctantly Returns a Load

The wagon load of liquors seized at the office of the Tarbox Express company on Franklin street, Bideford, several weeks ago and on which Manager Small of the express company was given a hearing on a search and seizure charge and discharged on Thursday was ordered returned this morning to the Tarbox people by Recorder C. B. Rumery before whom Attorney Robert B. Seidel appeared and presented a claim.

The deputies reluctantly gave up the liquors as they claim they had sufficient evidence to prove illegal business, but could not prove anything against Manager Small.

The liquors, which were stored in the room on the rear of the deputy sheriff's residence, were turned over to representatives of the express company Saturday and hauled back to the express office on Franklin street.

ADVOCATES
GENERAL STRIKEHaywood Calls for Action if Ettor is Not Free Before Sept. 30---Arrested on Charge of Conspiracy

Boston, Sept. 16.—William D. Haywood, of Denver, Col., general organizer for the general industrial workers of the world, was arrested here yesterday on a capias warrant issued as a result of the indictment by the Essex county grand jury. The indictment charges him with conspiracy in connection with the great strike of textile workers in Lawrence last winter. He was released in $1000 bonds.

The exact nature of the conspiracy with which Haywood was charged was not mentioned in the indictment. Just before his arrest, Haywood in addressing a mass meeting of 15,000 persons on Boston Common had sounded a call for a general strike of New England workers.

"It will be a nation wide movement," he said as a protest against the arrest imprisonment and trial of Ettor, Giovannioli, and Caruso.

These three I W W leaders who were active during the Lawrence strike are charged with complicity in the shooting of a striker Anna Lopez, during a riot in Lawrence last January.

At yesterday's meeting banners were displayed calling for the release of the three leaders and Haywood was cheered when he cried "We will open the jail doors or close the mill gates."

In the next breath Haywood urged a general strike. He declared it would probably be a fact by the end of the coming week and that it would surely result before Sept. 30, the date set for the beginning of the leaders' trials.

He advised the assembled workers to begin to strike tomorrow.

"If you will leave your benches tomorrow you will make no mistake," he said. "Any time between now and Sept. 30, will do, but the sooner the better if you go out tomorrow you will be the forerunners of the vanguard of a great movement for freedom."

Haywood declared that such a strike as a movement of general protest, would save lives, just as did the great movement of sympathy and support which resulted in the vindication of Moyer, Pettibone and myself.

The indictment to which Haywood was arrested was returned by the Essex county grand jury several months ago.

Although the state police made preparations to arrest him when it was announced that he would come into the state today no interference with the mass meeting was attempted.

nishes a Little Life at Its Close

Just prior to the conclusion of the railroad rate hearing before the Public Service commission Friday at Concord, there was a wordy battle between Messrs. Rich and Kelley, counsel for the Boston & Maine and Allen Hollis, of counsel for the state.

Mr. Rich was quoting from testimony of certain leased line directors, and Mr. Hollis saw fit to interject as Atty Rich would call the name "This is a leased line director and a stand-patter."

Warm protest against this was made by Mr. Rich and a sharp passage at arms followed. The gist of Attorney Kelley's reply was that when Mr. Hollis was a railroad lawyer he never hesitated to seize every advantage.

ALIENS AFTER PAPERS

Foreigners Want to Vote at November Election

Judge Pike of the Superior court is setting at a special session here today at the court house. Thirty four aliens from throughout the county appeared for their final papers in order that they could cast their first vote at the coming election.

The Herald Hears

That the W C T U should be pleased with the ceremonies at the launching of the new ferry boat at the navy yard on Friday.

That a bottle of some famous spring water was used instead of the very wine.

That Miss Decatur the lady who did the honor as sponsor found the bottle that contained the transparent liquid was hard to smash.

That one of the officers of the yard was obliged to come to her assistance with his strong arm.

That the government certainly has no superstition when it put the new craft in the water on Friday, the thirteenth.

The street department pre-busy today on the cross walks, something that has not been done for a long time.

That the Gilmert club had about 40 at the outing at Rye on Sunday.

That the local militia company feel pretty well over the work at the fort.

That the moulders at the Ford and Kimball foundry at Concord have been ordered to work on 5 day schedule per week.

That the P C U were certainly in bad at Dover on Saturday.

That a party of local business men are planning a trip to Montreal via Portland.

That the man who put away the straw hat was glad to pull it down from the shelf on Sunday.

That the straw lid is safe in Washington till the snow flies.

That railroad men are out after Governor Foss of Massachusetts with a circular for his veto of the "full train crew bill."

AUTO TRUCK DAMAGED.

Rockingham County, Light and Power Company's Truck Skids.

The failure of the street department to properly clean the asphalt paving on Vaughan street was on Saturday evening responsible for the big auto truck owned by the Rockingham County Power and Light Company being damaged. The light rain in the early part of the evening caused the paving to become very slippy from the sweepings that had been allowed to collect and as the truck came down the street it skid-

Fred L. Trask, chief clerk of the Equipment Department of the navy here who is about 35 years of age, besides his wife who is a most estimable lady with a large circle of friends. Mr. Pearson informs the Herald that he has employed counsel.

The case has been a local scandal for the past ten days. Mr. Pearson informed the Herald that young Trask told him about ten days ago that he was going to take his wife.

Said he "We can't live apart. I asked Mrs. Pearson about it and she said it was so."

Mr. Pearson is much grieved over the entire affair. Mrs. Pearson took along all her personal effects. She has a large number of friends who will be surprised at the story of her leaving.

LOOKING FOR HIS MONEY

Carna Schlansky Touched for His Coin in North End House

Carna Schlansky employed on the construction of a railroad in Maine landed in town on Saturday with nearly $100 in his jeans. Today he's broke and the police are trying to find out who got his hard earned cash.

Schlansky got into society right away. The gay season was on, in the Polish colony and he attended a Charade party at the corner of Market and Green street. It was certainly one gay event. There was music galore, musicians with Jew's harps, accordions, fiddles, harmonicas and several other instruments made up the orchestra for the merry waltz and Schlansky took part in the gay whirl and showed himself extensively when it was his turn to do the honors. Every time he flashed the long greens the gang took a stant a the roll and got his financial standing at a glance.

When the orchestra ceased some time near 1 a. m.

Schlansky hunted up a bed and the world was soon lost to him.

He woke up on Sunday morning and found that he had been touched up for nearly $80. The police were called in and officers Hurley and Shannon went down to the afternoon concert accompanied by Schlansky. They brought back two of the board—see-lashoken, Shleest and Dandoken Stremenuk. These two were at the party and Schlansky claims they were shouting at him all night, and he thought they might have annexed themselves to his money. The police learned that they had made a deposit of sixty dollars in the bank this morning the first for many months and held them for further investigation. They both deny any knowledge of the robbery. Schlansky was a stranger to the distinguished gathering and it cost him something to get wist.

Today Corset Fashion is Established

It is unnecessary to wait—we have the authoritative Autumn Warner Styles for every woman. They fit perfectly—simple or extreme fashions are becomingly set off.

Why try to fit that beautiful suit you saw in our department, over last year's corset model? Won't you take a moment to look at the Autumn Styles of Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets? They are the authoritative corset styles for this season—there is no part of the corsetted figure that is not ideally comfortable, and beautifully shaped in these models.

At first it seemed a little "bump-tious" for Warner to say "Warner Style"—as though that was the leading style—but when we found it was synonymous with dress fashions, having the stamp of approval of the fashion makers of the world, we knew it was not "bump-tious," but helping us to sell you corsets exactly right very early in the season.

More than 25 styles to select from—but we shall know your model the instant we "size" your figure.

PORTSMOUTH ALL-STARS DEFEAT CONCORD ALL-STARS

Visitors Unable to Reach Local Pitchers--Walter Woods Played Fine Game With Locals.

The All Stars of the Portsmouth center and it was good for a Sunset League defeated the All Stars home run scoring the first three runs, of Concord in a rattling good game. All of the locals batted well, Walter at the play grounds on Saturday, Woods had three singles and Brackett when the Capital city ball tossers, Sweeney and Fisher counted twice, were up against a stone wall in the fourth, when after Cal took a liking to both of the Concord players was thrown out by Brackett, cord twirlers and walloped out Strong and Green singled, and thirteen hits, one a home run with O'Brien hit to second, and it looked good for two runs, but Fisher made a Sorelle of the Elks pitched the first five innings and he allowed but three hits only being in an uncomfortable position in the fourth when with one gone two men singled, but first three innings. In the fourth a great catch by Fisher on second saved a run. He got great support all of the time he was in, Jim Travers went in at the end of the fifth and with the ball wet for it rained, rolled so far that he was home before he did not allow a hit but did pass three men, but only one of them reached second. It was great pitching.

Walter Woods was scheduled to play third but admitted that he would rather catch, so Bill Brackett second on a passed ball and scored on was shifted over to third, Fisher Brackett's single, Walter Woods followed to second and Walter caught a home run on Sweeney hit for two bases, or at second played a great game, scoring Brackett and Walter. Hunteon making one great catch, saving a hit from and Able flied to Strong and and possibly two runs. Hunteon contributed the catch of the game when in the third Galfetti hit over short got two men on. They added two for what looked like a sure single, more in the eighth. After Sweeney Hunteon started back on the run, had flied to center Hunteon was hit stabled the ball with his right and Able singled to right and the ball when it bounded out of his mitt he went through Galfetti's legs, who had caught it with his left. It was one of the classy catches of the year and Hunteon scored, Newick was Red got a great hand. He was also safe on Strong's fumble and a passed there with the walloper, for in the fourth with two men on he hit a line and Travers was thrown out by er over short that went through left Anguin.

Four of World's Greatest Track Athletes Who Will Retire this Fall

New York Sept. 16—Many of the famous track athletes will be missing from the ranks next season. Among those who have announced their intention of quitting the sport this fall is Ralph Craig of Detroit, intercollegiate 100 and 200 yard champion in 1911 and winner of the 100 and 200 meter races at the Olympic games in Stockholm last June. He states business will prevent him from competing. George Bonhag, the famous middle-distance runner declares he will retire after the national championship at Pittsburgh, Bobby Kerr, the greatest sprinter Canada ever produced, will become a coach at one of the universities in the Dominion. Ted Bernia of Cornell, the crack two-mile distance runner declares he will devote his time to business from now on. George Goulding of Canada, the world's greatest walker, says he will give up the sport this fall and go into business in Toronto.

Miller, is also through. Ted says he will devote his time to business from now on. George Goulding of Canada, the world's greatest walker, says he will give up the sport this fall and go into business in Toronto.

The team went out in order in the eighth. Bill Sheridan and Howard umpired and gave excellent satisfaction.

NO INDIGESTION, GAS OR A SOUR STOMACH

"Pape's Diapiesin" Makes Your Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if your gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate—just take a little Diapiesin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

SUMMER HEAT AND SHOWERS

The summer came back for the weeks end and it brought real July weather, so that Sunday, Sept. 15, is liable to go down as the warmest day of that date for years.

There was a light southerly wind blowing, and the temperature began to climb upwards early in the morning and at noon it was nearly 90 in the shade, and at six o'clock it was eighty.

A series of showers came up shortly after six and lasted through the night, with several heavy rains. There was considerable lightning and some damage was done outside the city. The Dover line of the Atlantic Shore line railway was out of commission for two hours.

Chiffonade Dressing.

This is extremely good to serve on lettuce, romaine, or any green salad. Into a glass jar put one hard boiled egg, finely chopped, one teaspoon finely cut chives, one tablespoon each chopped red and green pepper, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika and one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup olive oil, three tablespoons vinegar and one teaspoon tarragon vinegar. Allow it to become very cold, and just before serving shake the contents of the jar thoroughly.

Indian Tomatoes.

Cut half a dozen ripe tomatoes in halves, take out the seeds and turn them, cut side downward, on a dish on the ice. Make a rich curry sauce, adding cream and lemon juice, partly freeze the sauce, then mix in half its volume of minced anchovies, gherkins, olives and shrimps. Finish the freezing process and with it fill the tomatoes, bringing the cream to a point, form a handle with a green stalk of parsley and dish them on a bed of water-cress.

Potato Puffs.

Boil six potatoes and put through a ricer. Beat one egg; mix with it one fourth cup milk; add the potatoes piece of butter and salt. Form potatoes into fancy shape, brush with egg and bake in hot oven.

Chili Sauce.

Eighteen large tomatoes, two onions, three green peppers, one cup white sugar, 2½ cups vinegar, two teaspoons each salt, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Cook half an hour and bottle.

15--Last of the Alleged Murderers
To Be Taken.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—"Gyp the blood" and "Lefty Louie," the missing gunmen indicted as two of the actual slayers of Rosenthal the gambler, were found by the police Saturday living with their wives in a flat in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn. They were arrested by Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and a squad of detectives, who brought them to police headquarters and locked them up. They will be arraigned on Monday to plead to the indictments against them.

Wives Lead to Gunmen.
The two gunmen had been occupying the flat since Aug. 15 alone, until Tuesday, when they were joined by their wives, through whom clues to their whereabouts were obtained by the police.

The four were sitting at tea when Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and his men burst open the door of their apartment and with revolvers drawn ordered them to hold up their hands. Neither of the gunmen made any show of resistance.

"Drop your guns. You've got us," said "Gyp" calmly.

"Give us a little time to get dressed, will you?" said "Lefty" with equal composure. Scarcely another remark was made to the police by either man until they were examined at police headquarters later by Assistant District Attorney Moss, acting for District Attorney Whitman, who has gone to Hot Springs to take testimony of persons who talked to Sam Schepps, a witness in the case. The women, however, made a scene, throwing their arms around their husbands' necks and weeping. They had to be torn away from the men before the police could get their prisoners out of the apartment, and were later brought to headquarters.

OBSEQUES.George Wright.

The funeral of Mr. George Wright was held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late home on Daniel street. Rev. Dr. Thayer, pastor of the North church, conducted the services. The interment was in the South cemetery under the direction of Oliver W. Ham.

The passing away of Mr. Wright will bring to the mind of many of our citizens one who for years done good service for the city—his work being mostly in connection with the laying of sidewalks. He was an excellent workman, a good quiet citizen, and one of whom no evil could be said.

Martin P. Trefethen.

The funeral of Martin P. Trefethen was held from Nickerson's chapel, Daniel street, on Saturday afternoon at 2.30, Rev. Edwin P. Moulton officiating. Interment was in Sagamore cemetery under the direction of H. W. Nickerson.

James Martin Shapleigh.

The funeral of James Martin Shapleigh was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Congregational church, Elm, Rev. M. V. McAllister officiating. The pallbearers were William Hobbs, William Shapleigh, William Johnson, Charles Jellison, Jasper Shapleigh and George Hammond. Interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery under the direction of H. W. Nickerson.

Mrs. Mary A. Haselton

The remains of Mrs. Mary A. Haselton who died in Boston were brought here Friday and services were held at the grave in South Cemetery by the Rev. C. L. V. Brine. Interment in charge of undertaker O. W. Ham.

Jane Augusta Patch

The funeral of Jane Augusta Patch was held from her late home in Kittery at 2 p. m., Saturday, Rev. Mr. Planders officiating. Interment was in Orchard Grove cemetery in charge of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

TO CONTEST WILL OF MILLIONAIRE

A representative of a New York law firm which is contesting the will of the millionaire philanthropist, John C. Martin of New York, was here looking up evidence and interviewing parties in this city and Kittery Point with a view to procuring evidence to defend the will of Mr. Martin made by Col. John H. Bartlett in this city in July last.

The will contained several large public bequests and the residuary estate was left for educational purposes.

The contention is that the nervous attack which necessitated Mr. Martin going from here to the sanitarium at Riverdale, N. Y., began before the will was executed.

Mr. Martin passed the greater part of the summer at the Champernowne at Kittery Point.

OBITUARY.Mrs. Elvira F. Marston.

Mrs. Elvira F. Marston, widow of Nathaniel P., died on Saturday forenoon at her home in Greenland. She was 50 years of age.

STILL SEEKING
STATE COLLEGE

Much interest is being shown in the selection of a president for the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. The college is fast growing in importance in the educational interests of the State. The trend of educational work is toward agriculture and the useful arts. More attention is being paid to these lines in the common and the High Schools. There seems to be a growing demand for teachers trained in these branches. The Federal Government has recognized this and is encouraging the establishment of the Agricultural High School and the introduction of elementary studies in natural sciences in the common schools.

A conference of the committee, looking up available men for the position of president, was held in Durham Saturday. Several persons who are prominent in educational work are being considered and arrangements were made for personal interviews. It is expected that the board will make their report at the regular meeting of the board of trustees in October.

LOST A LEG FROM TANK EXPLOSION

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 15.—One man is dying and two others painfully injured as the result of the explosion of a "presto-lite" automobile lighting tank in a garage at 411 Chestnut street early Saturday afternoon. Peter Harris and his son Leander, while engaged in refilling the tank of their car, were hurled from their feet and thrown heavily when the tank exploded without warning.

Cut Leg Off.

The elder Harris was struck terribly by flying fragments of the tank, and pitched against a wall of the building. His left leg was completely blown off. He is dying at the Sacred Heart Hospital, Leander Harris, the son who was standing over the tank when the explosion occurred, was lifted bodily, landing in a heap several feet away. The young man was terribly lacerated about the head and body.

The report of the explosion was heard a mile away. The garage was wrecked, the windows blown out, the rear wall thrown out of plumb.

Charles Beall and Morris Lobby, theatre attaches, ran into the garage and carried the unconscious bodies of the two men to the street.

Henry Moore, 7 years of age, of Chestnut street, who was passing the garage was thrown off his feet, cut and bruised by flying glass. He was taken to the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Miss Grace Ferry, 35, working in the Onelda laundry next door, fainted from excitement incident to the accident and was taken home.

BAD TO SMASH STRAW HAT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The open season for straw hats in the District of Columbia has been extended indefinitely by the Federal authorities.

Any playful citizen who thinks fashion's decree gives license to smash another's headgear because it may not be a mode after Sept. 15 will find the United States attorney ready to prosecute.

Any man who destroys another's straw hat will find a stiff fine or a long term in the workhouse awaiting him, declared attorney Given today. If this thing of destroying a man's hat because he chooses to ignore fashion's edict were carried on a man who chooses to wear low shoes might have his legs broken.

QUADRUPLETS QUIT HOSPITAL

Moved to Infant Asylum in Clothes Basket.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—The Seely quadruplets left their place of birth, the Dorchester Cottage Hospital, last night at 7 o'clock and were given their first look at the outer world, when they were moved in a huck to the St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Jerome street, Dorchester.

Tightly tucked in, the four little girls were placed side by side in a large clothes basket on a bed of pillows, and under the cover of darkness were transferred to the back, with their father, Thomas H. Seely, directing their removal from the hospital.

Their two nurses accompanied the children and the trip was made slowly and carefully. The babies, who are the only quadruplets who have lived any length of time, are the wonders of the medical world. They were born at the hospital Aug. 5, and under the care of physicians and nurses were at once placed in an incubator.

For four days they were perfectly quiet and on Aug. 9 they first began to cry, and it was for that sign that those in attendance were waiting, because they then felt sure the babies would live.

They were all thriving and had excellent color when they left the hospital last night. For days they have been bright and all are looking healthy. Small and tiny when born, they are gaining in weight and even though they have lived alike, the four of them are all of different weights.

They are still tagged and their names have not yet been decided upon. No. 4 is the heaviest and weighs 5 pounds and 4 ounces; No. 1 is next, weighing 4 pounds and 10 ounces; then comes No. 3 with a weight of 4 pounds and 4 ounces, while No. 2 is the smallest of them all, weighing 4 pounds and 3 ounces. The nurses say that No. 3 has a chance, however, to catch up with No. 2, and before long she may weigh more than her sister.

HEAVY SNOW IN DENVER.

Central Colorado and Parts of Wyoming Affected — Earliest Date Since 1903.

DENVER, Sept. 14.—Snow fell in Central Colorado and parts of Wyoming today. More than three inches fell in Denver. The thermometer stood at 34 degrees. A cold rain fell over both States during the night, changing to snow about daybreak.

In this city the snow melted rapidly. This is the earliest date snow has fallen in Colorado since 1903.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., a temperature of 30 degrees was registered early today.

MAKES TRIPLE PLAY WITHOUT ANY HELP

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—First Baseman Rupp of the Portland baseball club of the Pacific Coast league Saturday made a triple play unassisted in a game with Oakland. Oakland runners were on first and second bases. The batsman hit a low liner toward first, and the runners, thinking the ball could not be fielded, sprinted ahead.

Rupp scooped up the ball with one hand before it touched the ground. He touched first base before the runner could get back and then raced to second in time to get the third man.

GIMLET CLUB OUTING.

The annual outing of the Gimlet Club was held on Sunday at their cottage at Foss Beach, and there were about forty present.

A shore dinner was served and sports were held during the afternoon.

OUR CANDIDATES:

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT
Of Ohio.

For Vice President,
JAMES S. SHERMAN, of New York.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1912.

The Boston Post says lovers of birds all hail with delight the vote passed by the National Association of Game Commissioners urging all states to adopt the New York Audubon law prohibiting the sale of wild birds' feathers for millinery. Many fashionable women have already jaded all kinds of feathers as decorations for hats and bonnets but such a statute would remind the thoughtless after all feathers are savage adornments and we are emerging from savagery in all its forms as fast as we can.

The New York Sun says Wednesday the Sun not wholly unaccounted to this world of topsy-turvy took the liberty of doubling it. The great crops predicted by the Agricultural Department, especially those of corn and hay, whose high cost has so long been given as one reason of the high cost of meat, would lower the price of that singular commodity, necessary or luxury. Thursday our Chicago dispatches reported beef as sold that same Wednesday in the stock yards "15 cents higher than the high market" of Tuesday, momentarily a "record." One load of steers at $10.50; stock yard prophets foresaw "the eleven-dollar steer." Why was the horned devil portrayed as a goat? Why not as the steer he was and is?

The New York Times says in spite of civil war and the inevitably unsettled condition of the country after a forced change of government, Mexico's balance sheet has not been materially decreased. President Madero's message to congress next Monday will announce a substantial increase of exports in the last year. The Mexicans are slowly but surely recovering lost ground and they deserve the encouragement and sympathy of the people of the United States. Continued exaggeration of reports, in some of the press dispatches, of the doing of outlaws should not be heeded. If all such reports emanating from Mexican malcontents within their own borders, and in the border towns of the United States, in the last two years had been well founded, Mexico would now be a howling waste in stead of a prosperous country.

The Chicago Inter Ocean says a New York newspaper says that the campaign against Mr. Roosevelt is practically an appeal to the national sense of self respect. The statement expresses the situation accurately and aptly. Mr. Roosevelt's position is in substance that the great mass of the American people are helpless, down-trodden proletarians, who can do nothing to speak of for themselves and whose only hope lies in establishing a paternal government to shelter and protect them. The position of Mr. Taft and of regular republicanism is just the opposite. They maintain that the American citizen has not sunk to the level that Mr. Roosevelt so mistakenly assumes. They insist that he still has energy, initiative, capacity, self-respect.

The Pittsburgh Gazette-Times says it is declared that more than 30,000 Americans will reach their native shore in the ensuing few weeks after a sojourn in Europe during the vacation period. These figures represent only first and second class cabin passengers on the various steamship lines and do not take account of the thousands who came home in early and middle August—no inconsiderable number. Perhaps 100,000 Americans visited Europe last spring and summer. The exodus homeward, him forthwith. It was an edifying as tributed by the steamship companies, is not a reliable index of European travel, nor does it cover all the lines carrying this class of passengers. Even at the figures given for the immediate exodus there is an astonishing revelation of the growth of American travel in European countries. Last spring it was prophesied on all sides that the terrible disaster by which the Titanic was sunk would materially lessen the usual summer legions to Europe from the United States, but such has evidently not been the case. It may be assumed instead that the past season has broken all records for ocean travel.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph says: Announcement has been made of record-breaking crops of cereals this year and in many sections record-breaking crops of orchard fruits and now comes the glad tidings that this season's oyster crop promises to be the finest in years. It will be remembered that when the unusually severe winter of 1911-1912 was in its waning days there were loud wails from the grain and fruit belts, and the public was led to believe that the intense cold had killed off grains and fruits to such an awful extent that consumers would be confronted by famine conditions and famine prices. As is generally the case, the calamity howling was just a preliminary to bountiful harvests, furnishing assurances of plenty for American consumers and of much for the hungry in foreign lands.

Bird's Eye Views.

James Smith of New Jersey takes advantage of the fact that Gov. Wilson is busy with the performance in the main tent to try to slide in under the canvas.

The "Black Hand" letter writers are after all inconsiderable contributors to John D. Rockefeller's large and commodious waste-basket.

The Secretary of Agriculture will undoubtedly point to the years crop of abundance as positive evidence of efficient service in his particular line. The circulation of gratuitous campaign literature has already made the problem of existence much easier for the rural editor.

Congress spent over a billion, but a no one ever comes to you with a direct United States tax bill, or course no one has to pay for it.

It is the men who wear colored shirts on week days and who eat their dinners in the middle of the day who are the backbone of the nation.

Six inches of rain recently fell in England on one day. If that keeps up, England will be an island covered with water as well as surrounded by it.

A candidate is sometimes dissatisfied with a newspaper, which does not give him enough space to prevent the publication of what anybody else has to say for himself.

It may be true that Prof. Woodrow Wilson once sang tenor in a glee club. He has all the natural gifts for compelling deference that distinguish a true tenor singer.

A Vice President may be more or less obscure but Gov. Johnson sees no reason why a vice president, candidate should be shy and retiring.

Possibly men are forgetting how to talk on account of so much automobile; that is, some men may be, but we know a large number who continue to hot the grade regularly.

The Roosevelt electors in Kansas seem determined to stay on the Republican ticket. Funny isn't it, with a candidate whose chief campaign slogan is "Thou shalt not steal."

Current Comment.

Bad Temper as a Portent.

Are things going badly for the big old moose out on the Pacific coast? Is his bellows awake but faint echoes in the hills? Are his followers beginning to show signs of stampede? Surely it would be distressing if after a noisy a beginning on a national campaign the third-term movement were to fizzle out into a personally conducted demonstration of ambition to destroy American traditions and institutions. There are symptoms to indicate that something of this sort may be on the way. For instance, he colonel is showing signs of bad temper. It will be remembered that in Chicago, when he discovered that he could not swing the nomination through the medium of psychological contests, he became so peevish that his closest friends were charmed. He said things right out in company. He sulked and stormed and aged and roared in public without regard to who was observing and listening and those who are accustomed to measure the political currents by personal indications knew him that the jig was up as far as his republican nomination was concerned. Now comes a tale from Portland that suggests that something of the same sort is happening out there. The colonel lost a book yesterday from his hotel room in that city and, calling the proprietor of the house to the door of his automobile in the street he read him a scathing lecture for his carelessness and commanded him to get the book and return it to the colonel.

etary of War Stimson In Conference With Officers at the Presidio, San Francisco.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson has been inspecting the troops at the Presidio, San Francisco, and conferring with the army officers there. It is probable that the visit has to do with the likelihood of dispatching troops to the Mexican border. Secretary Stimson is readily distinguishable as the center figure. At the left in the photograph is Colonel Lea Feligor, while at Mr. Stimson's left hand is Major William Lassiter.

ADVOCATES GENERAL STRIKE

The Industrial Workers of the World organizer held an impromptu reception on the common, delivered his speech and then hurried away through the crowd to one of the common entrances, where several automobiles were lined up at the curb. Haywood stepped into one of the cars, exclaiming to the driver "Let's get away."

"We will in a moment, the man at the wheel replied. I'm waiting for the other fellows. They'll be along in a moment."

Then it developed that it was the state police automobile and that the man at the wheel was state officer Thomas Rustis.

Haywood then was hustled to police station 16, where he was booked, heard the charges against him, read, was told that bonds of $1000 in cash would suffice for his release, and was ordered to appear before the superior criminal court of Essex county at Lawrence, this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Ball was furnished by attorney Fred H. Moore, of Los Angeles, who accompanied Haywood to the police station.

Mr. Moore has been engaged to defend Ettor, Giovannitti, and Caruso at their forthcoming trial. The bail commissioner was Thomas J. Connolly of Boston who came into prominence recently as counsel for the striking street carmen. He too, accompanied Haywood in the machine.

Apparently Haywood was prepared against arrest for there was every facility at hand to accomplish his quick release.

A demand by the bail commissioner that state officer Arthur E. Keating who made the charge and had custody of the warrant should specify the charges of conspiracy upon which he arrested through the principal streets of the city for two hours before bringing up at the meeting place. En route and on the common banners were displayed reading. Ettor and Giovannitti eight months in jail; William M. Wood and company out on bail.

The latter part of the caption referred to the case of the men indicted on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the planting of dynamite in Lawrence during the strike.

On the wagon rostrum was the defense committee organized to collect funds and retain counsel for the defense of the leaders who are in jail. William Yates of New Bedford national secretary of the textile branch of the I W W was chairman. He spoke briefly as did J. S. Bitasky of Oregon and others.

Several hundred Lawrence said workers who attempted to parade through the Italian quarter of the north end with a band had trouble with the police because their permit did not allow them to go through that district and the distribution of handbills was not permitted.

The police arrested Pasquale Enza, charged with distributing circulars which read "Strike! Strike! Sept. 30 and quash the indictments against Ettor and Giovannitti."

When the crowd tried to rescue Enza, a heavy call was sent to the police station for reinforcements. A squad was sent to the scene and with drawn clubs dispersed the crowd and took the prisoners to the station.

APPRENTICES ARE DROWNED

Cutter Capsizes in Lake Michigan and Eleven Find Watery Grave.-- Bodies of Six Recovered

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Six naval apprentices were drowned and five are missing as the result of the capsizing of a cutter from the United States naval training station at North Chicago late this afternoon. The bodies of six of the victims were recovered and identified, and it is believed that the five boys unaccounted for are drowned.

The known drowned are:
R. C. Harlan
J. L. Southworth
J. Wallace
J. A. Patton
W. M. Antrigus
A. L. Raymond

The boys were between 16 and 20 years of age and were from the middle western states.

The party in which were 24 apprentices left the training station

An English gentleman writes that he read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," and at a meeting of the Victorian Psychological Society of London (of which he is president) he urges the members to read it carefully, for as he writes: "I think it the finest little book of Psychological knowledge I have ever seen."

He is Mr. T. A. Wilson, 22 Hamburg St., Richmond, Eng.

The relation of body, food, and mind are explained in a simple way in "The Road to Wellville," and a miniature copy is placed in a small envelope, and attached to every third package of Grape-Nuts, in order to extend its circulation, in such cases, free.

If interested you can instruct your grocer to send up a package with the little envelope attached.

The little book is certainly interesting and well worth reading.

DIDN'T FEAZE THE FRECKLES

Jim Got the Lotion and Applied It, But Improvement Was Not Welcome.

I met Jim early one morning on Market street. He was chuckling to himself as he asked me if John, my son, was "touchy" about his freckles. I replied that I didn't think he was unreasonably so, and then Jim told me why he had put the question.

"I used to have a terrible time with my freckles," he said. "It seemed to me then, and it does now, that I had more than any other boy who ever lived. The fellows and the girls used to joke about them, and what they said hurt. Yes, it did. You can't know how much it hurts to have folks make sport of such a fearful infirmity unless you've been afflicted.

"Well, one day at the drug store on the corner I saw advertised 'The Balm of a Thousand Flowers,' a sure cure for freckles, blackheads, rough skin, and everything else imaginable, and my heart gave a great thump. If I could only get a bottle. But the price was fifty cents—prohibitive! 'One morning I was sent to the chemist's on an errand before school—I was attending a small private institution then. Since my discovery there I had almost haunted the shop, a sort of self-appointed guardian of that magical balm, hoping all the time that some good fairy would come along and provide me with a bottle.

"Do you know what I found there that morning? A hole in the show case right where the balm was placed. Yes, I got a bottle when the clerk's back was turned, and as soon as I could hurry away I made for our barn and gave my face a good washing with the lotion. Then I went to school, but I didn't stay there very long.

"As soon as I entered the room the pupils began to laugh and the teacher called me to her.

"James," she said, 'go straight home and don't come back until you have washed your face.'

"I couldn't imagine what it was all about, but I went home and looked in the mirror. My face was as red as beet. Then I rushed out to the barn and read the directions on the bottle of balm. They said to use a teaspoonful to a pint of water!"—Charles Virgil Tevis in the Nookman.

Women Should Keep Their Places.

At a meeting of a woman suffrage organization in Kansas City, Kan., it was suggested that the members talk to their servants and other women workers with a view to forming a estimate as to the strength of suffrage sentiment in that particular locality. One member, who has employed the same washerwoman for the last six years, reported that she put the question to this worthy lady.

"Are you in favor of votes for women?" the suffrage woman asked.

"I don't pay any attention to politics," the washerwoman replied. "I leave all that to my husband."

"Well, how does your husband stand on woman suffrage?"

"He don't stand at all. He believe in women staying at home and mind their own business."

"How many families do you wash for?"

"Six."

"And what does your husband do Mary?"

"He ain't doing anything right now—unless he found something this morning."

Broncho Saved Rider.

Nathaniel Diaz of New York, who is spending his vacation at Diamond Spring Inn, Denville, N. J., is recovering from a severe shock he experienced recently. Diaz saddled a broncho shortly after daylight to enjoy a ride through the mountains.

As he was galloping alone, Diaz saw an automobile coming around a curve at 50-mile-an-hour speed.

The road was narrow. On either side were high ledges of rock. The auto could not stop quickly enough to avoid a collision. The horse could not turn and race before the automobile.

At the moment collision seemed inevitable the wily little animal jumped over the small car. No one was hurt.

Diaz is still very nervous. He says he will pension the broncho.

PANAMA CANAL TO OPEN NEXT YEAR

The Panama canal is to be opened to traffic in the fall of 1913. This statement was made officially at the Navy Department Saturday with an announcement that the Atlantic fleet would be rendezvoused at Colon this winter before the water is turned in. The navy's estimate is based upon the latest reports from the army engineers.

Secretary Meyer, after consulting with the Isthmian Canal Commission, discovered that construction work on the canal had progressed so far that unless action was taken immediately, there was a probability that the men of the fleet would have no opportunity to examine the connecting link between the two oceans before it was in operation. The visit of the fleet will include railroad trips for the men throughout the canal zone.

While there has been much speculation and a number of prophecies concerning the early opening of the canal, the Navy Department was the first to announce the surprising fact.

The date for the opening originally was set for Jan. 1, 1915, and engineers for some time had doubted if the engineering difficulties could be overcome to permit completion of the work by that date. The remaining work is said to offer few obstacles.

POLICE NEWS.

There were five drunks, one assault and one street walker on the police blotter Saturday night.

The street walker was a girl named Mary Lawrence, who was released Sunday, when she agreed to leave the city.

Sunday was quiet no arrests being made.

MEMORY IN CHILDREN

OVER-CULTIVATION OF BRAIN A SERIOUS MISTAKE.

Intellectual Development Largely Matter of Environment—Precocious Infant Rarely Makes Good Early Promises.

Much to the easement of our social amenities, the precocious child has gone out of fashion. No longer have we to stifle yawns and to smile while our fingers tingle from a desire to smack as a baby prodigy recites Shakespeare or gives impromptu scale-practice on the piano.

In fact, the tendency is the other way; we are on the upswing of a Rousseau movement and the dear babies are being turned out to do gardening and to cultivate powers of observation apart from books and pen and ink; the nursery has become a menagerie and botanical museum, and that her boy or girl of seven is ignorant of the alphabet is the latest and proudest boast of the loving mother.

A change all to the good, surely, did it not seemingly take as much time, trouble and teaching to keep up a condition of book ignorance as of book knowledge.

What is considered brain development in a child is nearly always a matter of memory and adaptability, just a parrot-like quality strongly developed. The child just remembers and imitates.

One has this shown very clearly in the historical records of royalties. Where the young prince or princess has, through the pressure of state affairs, been obliged to live surrounded by diplomats and ministers, the child has picked up the jargon in the most astonishing fashion.

Have we not on record that when Mary, Queen of Scots, as a child of eight years, met her mother at Rouen, the little queen's reply to the maternal caresses was the inquiry: "What factions continued to exist in the noble families of Scotland?" and "whether the English still harassed her native country; whether worship remained pure and the prelates and clergy did their duty?"

At eleven she quotes Plutarch, and at twelve she writes an essay on the demeanor and duties of princes, couched in the language of an elderly statesman. Yet, though a brilliant woman, who can say that Mary Stuart's later life was remarkable in wisdom and diplomacy? Her precocity was just the repetition of the sentiments and expressions she heard about her.

And might not one hazard the opinion that the weighting of the memory destroys other faculties and gives a reason why the precocious child, so early becomes a distinct rocket—its light and fizzle and glare all ended before maturity is reached. Perhaps it is this consciousness which makes it all have a feeling of pity for the precocious child and to rejoice so heartily that juvenile displays no longer shadow our afternoons. In some things at least we make for progress.—Exchange.

Turpentine as an Antiseptic.

One of the most famous surgeons in New York writes to the World apropos of a discussion about the safety of carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury and other violent poisons as antiseptics, that one of the best and certainly the safest thing for the layman to use on wounds is turpentine. He is Dr. Morris Stark, assistant attending surgeon at Bellevue hospital and lecturer on surgical dressing at the training school of the French hospital. His words are as follows:

"Ordinary turpentine, if rubbed into a wound which has not bled properly provided the wound seems to have gone through the skin, will not only act as a most powerful germicide but will start bleeding, a most desirable feature when a wound is first received. When free bleeding has begun the turpentine should be washed away with a little alcohol. This is an absolutely safe procedure. The wound is then dressed with any mild antiseptic, such as boracic acid or ordinary salt solution and kept moist with these solutions."

Rural Justice as She Is Dealt Out.

"According to the newspapers," remarked Constable Sam T. Blackputter, the well known sleuth of Skeedee, "the New York police have granted $2,400,000 off'n evildoers, and are now killing 'em for complaining about it. That's a heck of a way to do, ain't it? Now, out here, when a fellow breaks the law I just pull him and take him before old Squire Dorn blazer, and we graduate the penalty according to where he's from and how well fixed he 'pears to be. Frinstance if he is one of our home boys he gets off with a dollar and costs; if he be longer over at our rival town of Whillerville he is assessed ten dollars and trimmings—which is really less than any of that outfit of tarapina de serves, anyhow—and if he is a rig cuss from Kansas City that has run his automobile too fast he gets $5 and the usual side dishes. Our way—me and the old squire's—is to sorter temper mercy with justice, as you might say."

Indications.

"I think rooms reflect the personality of their inhabitants."
"Then I take it, the lady who uses this room is of a very worrying disposition."
"What makes you think that?"
"Because it has so much fret work."

MAKING USE OF WASTE LAND

Cogent Thoughts on Subject That is Being Forced on the Attention of the People.

A genuinely civilized country—economically speaking, at least—is one whose land is divided into small holdings, each of which supports its own family. This is the land's final, stationary stage, so to speak—The sort of thing one sees, for instance, in the smiling, truly prosperous provinces of France. The French lend money to all the world. They are perhaps the most prosperous of peoples. A country divided into such small self-sufficient holdings is defended in the strongest way against financial explosions and shipwrecks. What ever may be the zest of cow-punching or the charm of the old-fashioned plantation life, no state can be said to have reached social maturity when it is composed of large holdings and its inhabitants are dependent on the financial ups and downs of the few.

The swamp lands of the United States are particularly good examples of this sort of backwardness. They are useful for nothing but timber, and oftentimes not for that. Anything more unsocial or desolate than a southern cypress swamp it would be difficult to imagine. Yet those who are interested in the tremendously important question of swamp drainage often meet with a curious local opposition, in addition to the obvious mechanical difficulties and the tangle of state lines. Owners do not want to break up their large holdings, even though the value of the land will be vastly improved. They have been big landholders for generations, and big landholders they wish to remain, even though much of their land be worthless.

It is a tradition of prejudice to which the tendency of the age is opposed.

However far or near Socialism may be, there is no doubt that—in a broad sense of the word—we are becoming every day more social. This may now be a matter of taste. It will presently be a matter of necessity. People will have to touch one another whether they like it or not. For there is less and less elbow room.—Officer's Weekly.

Origin of Vaudeville.

Writing to the Kansas City Star concerning the origin of the word vaudeville, Raymond Weeks, professor of romance languages at Columbia university, says "the word is derived from the Vaux de Vire (the Vales of Vire), a village in Normandy."

"Oliver Basselin was a French poet who resembled Robert Burns and who lived at Vaux de Vire in the fifteenth century. He wrote many popular songs, largely jolly drinking songs. These spread far beyond the obscure hamlet where he lived, until, finally, the name of Vaux de Vire, by which they were known, not being understood, they and similar songs were called Vaux de Ville. They are mentioned by Boileau in his Art Poétique. Early in the eighteenth century in France, such songs were interspersed to vary light operettas, which later were called by their name. The songs of Basselin in praise of cider and wine are probably the finest of their sort in any language."

"As for the fact that we have taken vaudeville from the French, let me observe that most of our important terms relating to the theater came into English from French."

Boarding-House Suggestion.

In a business women's boarding home, with 35 to 40 permanent guests, there was a disposition to form cliques. This was somewhat due to the fact that women who sat together at table day after day became well acquainted with each other, while having hardly more than a bowing acquaintance with those at other tables.

Then one day the manager announced that, to "keep things moving," there would be a realignment of seats at table the first day of each month. Some murmurs of disapproval greeted this, but when the first day came everyone was greatly interested in seeing what neighbors she had drawn. The tables were lettered and the seats numbered, and each guest drew a slip bearing her designated place.

Months for days afterward were much livelier than they had been. There were new people to talk to, new subjects coming up at each meal, and everyone voted the innovation a great success.—Woman's Home Companion.

Made It Diamonds.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, the new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said in San Francisco of the "new woman": "My type of new woman has a high sense of honor, a manly sense of honor. She isn't like a certain old-fashioned type of woman who does dishonorable things without the least notion of their being so."

"A woman of this type was playing bridge. Her partner passed the make to her, and she made it diamonds, but her hand, on being put down, was found to contain only two diamonds, both very low cards."

"What on earth induced you to go diamonds on such a hand as that?" her partner asked.

"It's your fault," she answered petulantly. "Why did you twiddle your diamond ring?"

Patient—Yes, doctor, and I'll have another when I get your bill.

GOODS EXEMPT FROM SEIZURE

Ordinary Householder Will Be Surprised to Learn How Much He May Legally Retain.

To protect the honest debtor from oppression at the hands of remorseless creditors, it has been the policy of the law to designate certain articles deemed necessary for human subsistence as being "exempt from execution," that is to say, the sheriff may not seize them to satisfy a debt.

New York's law on the subject was passed in 1828 as part of the revised statutes and has been re-enacted from time to time with but slight changes, although living conditions have, of course, altered considerably in the past ninety years.

As a result of this situation, the New York flat-dweller will find, if he looks up the law providing for his "exemptions from execution," that however much the high cost of living may enslave him, the sheriff will never be able to take from him any of the following articles which may be discovered in his flat:

"All spinning wheels, weaving looms and stoves put up or kept for use in a dwelling house, and one sewing machine with its appurtenances."

"Ten sheep with their fleeces, and the yarn or cloth manufactured therefrom; one cow, two swine, the necessary food for those animals, all necessary meat, fish, flour, groceries and vegetables, actually provided for family use, and necessary fuel, oil and candles, for the use of the family for sixty days."

"All wearing apparel, beds, bedsteads and bedding, necessary for the judgment debtor and the family; all necessary cooking utensils; one table, six chairs, six knives, six forks, six spoons, six plates, six tea cups, six saucers, one sugar dish, one milk pot, one tea pot, one crane and its appendages, one pair of audrions, one coal scuttle, one shovel and one pair of tongs, one lamp and one candlestick."—New York American.

Famous Songs.

It has been said that the late H. Trotter, who composed such famous songs as "In Old Madrid," "The Deathless Army," "Ashore" and "Go to Sea," could claim the distinction of being the world's quickest composer, and there was certainly some justification for this claim.

His beautiful song, "Ashore," was both written and composed in 40 minutes in a restaurant, while the strains of "In Old Madrid" (of which 750,000 copies have been sold) was also the result of a sudden inspiration. The melody came to the composer while he was on his way from the Royal Aquarium; lest it should escape him, he rushed into a public house in Rochester row, seized a biscuit bag and wrote down the air. H. Trotter is also said to have composed "The Brow of the Hill," written a letter about it and run a quarter of a mile to post it, all in eight minutes.

The late Sir Arthur Sullivan was also a wonderfully rapid worker. It is related that he wrote the overture to "The Yeoman of the Guard" in twelve hours, and that of "Iolanthe" between a late dinner and next morning's breakfast. On one occasion he wrote the music for a solo dance for Fanny so quickly that it was actually being rehearsed within a quarter of an hour from the time he set about composing it.

Realities of Life.

The great art of life, so far as I have been able to observe, consists in fortitude and perseverance. I have rarely seen that a man who conscientiously devoted himself to the studies and duties of any profession and did not omit to take fair and honorable opportunities of offering himself to notice when such presented themselves, has not at length got forward. The mischance of those who fall behind, though hung upon fortune more frequently arises from want of skill and perseverance. Life is like a game of cards. Our hands are alternately good or bad and the whole seems, at first glance, to depend on mere chance. But it is not so, for in the long run the skill of the player predominates over the casualties of the game. Therefore, do not be discouraged with the prospect before you, but ply your studies hard and quality yourself to receive fortune when she comes your way.—Sir Walter Scott.

Fixed Date for Easter.

At the fifty-second annual meeting of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom held in London last March, it was agreed unanimously that a fixed date for Easter ought to be adopted in international agreement. This is a rather startling illustration of the freedom of thought that characterizes the twentieth century. Throughout the middle ages Christendom was rent with continued discussions as to the correct method of adjusting the occurrence of Easter to the phases of the moon, and the simple expedient of adopting a fixed date for the festival would have been regarded as an audacious piece of impiety.—Scientific American.

No Hesitancy.

"You never hesitate about offering to explain the tariff and banking and currency."

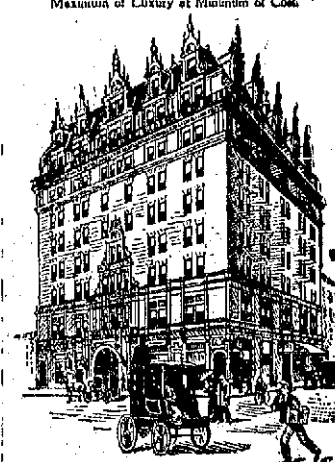

"Certainly not," replied Mr. Wiseboy.

"You are thoroughly informed on those subjects?"

"I don't have to be, I assure my hearers that I can explain it and they take my word for it rather than hear the statistics I next present."—Washington Star.

TWIN BLADE SAFETY RAZOR

Regularly sold for $1, for one coupon cut from this paper and only 48c.

This is the only safety razor we have seen that makes a professional barber's stroke possible.

It is constructed on an entirely new principle and does away with the sensation of pulling, scraping and tearing, the common fault of the ordinary "hoe-type."

The peculiar curve of the handle so fits the hand that you get an unusually firm grip, absolutely preventing vibration and permitting a natural, sweeping, DIAGONAL STROKE.

This razor is better finished than razors costing many times as much, and will give you more real satisfaction than any razor you can buy, no matter what the price.

For the convenience of our readers, the Portsmouth Herald has made arrangements with The Tilton Drug Co., 31 Market St., to redeem this coupon.

THIS COUPON properly filled out and presented to The Tilton Drug Co., 31 Market St., with 48c (50c by mail), entitles the bearer to a dollar TWIN BLADE SAFETY RAZOR, with the compliments of The Portsmouth Herald.

ADMIRAL'S WIFE MAKES APOLOGY

Mrs. Couden Publicly Regrets Remarks Made Concerning American Officers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Helen L. Couden, wife of Rear Admiral A. R. Couden whom she is suing for divorce, has made a public apology to Captain H. K. Hines, U. S. N. retired, for certain remarks made by her at a dinner given on board the U. S. S. Wheeling at Sitka, Alaska in 1909.

The apology appeared in the Army and Navy Journal and was made at this time, it is said, in order that the testimony of Captain Hines in the divorce case might be minimized.

In 1909 Rear Admiral Couden was a command of the Wheeling, ranking as a captain, and Captain Hines, then a lieutenant, was his navigating officer.

At a dinner which was given aboard the vessel, Mrs. Couden is alleged to have made disparaging remarks about officers of the American navy in comparison with the English. Mrs. Couden is an Englishwoman. Captain Hines in his testimony, were at that time exchanged between the wardroom officers and myself, I had considered the question closed, when informed of the public apology expresses amazement.

It is supposed that Captain Hines evidence before the referee in Washington who was hearing the Couden case, was reported to Mrs. Couden by her lawyer, who was present at the hearing and that she then determined to make Captain Hines a public apology. It is believed she wished to minimize the effect of the testimony and also make known the fact that she had already apologized to the other officers present.

The suit was brought on March 18, last, for a limited divorce and maintenance. Mrs. Couden claiming her husband would not live with her.

The apology is as follows: I, the undersigned, do publicly offer my apologies to Captain Harold K. Hines U. S. N. retired, and other officers for any remarks made by me at a dinner given on board the U. S. S. Wheeling, at Sitka, Alaska, in 1909, in which the British and American navies were discussed. As apologies were at that time exchanged between the wardroom officers and myself, I had considered the question closed, when informed of the public apology

More About Cage Masts
The experiments with the skeleton masts on the San Marcos have about convinced the officers who witnessed the test that the cage mast might be a safer place than the military mast was hit 12 times by large projectiles during the firing before it fell. A naval estimate would make the mast about one tenth of the target that the battleship would present to the enemy. On this basis the ship would be struck 117 times before the mast would fall. There

Nothing to it As Yet.

A report has it that the Judge Advocate of the navy, Robert B. Russell is making a tour of the several naval prisons where he is investigating the cases of a number of court martial men who are serving sentences with the idea of restoring several of them to duty on ships with a clean record although he visited this station several weeks ago none of the men have as yet been released under such conditions.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence

Again, and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Portsmouth's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Portsmouth been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true; but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

James W. McMullen, grocer, 69 Denbott street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy as they have been used in my family for pain and lameness across the loins, and difficulty with kidney secretions and they have always lived up to representations. I have no hesitation in giving Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement."
